

Institution integrates crosscutting issues through curriculum

- 1. Professional ethics are reflected in the programmes such as B. Com, M. Com, BBA(CA), Economics. A., MSc, MScs Computer Science, Computer Software Development, Tourism and Hospitality Management. The professional ethics and human values are reflected in the curriculum of programme like B. Com Marketing and Salesmanship, Consumer Protection and Business Ethics, Indian Banking System, Business Administration, Strategic Management, case studies, Computerise Accounting, Business Communication and Auditing & Taxation. In the B.Sc. programmes Research Methodology in Plant Sciences, Food Microbiology, Clinical Microbiology, Data Structure, Software Engineering, Tourism operation software, Practical on Map Work reflect the ethical values, In the B.A programs Pragmatics and Digital Humanities, Basic concept of research methodology, Cyber Security reflect ethical and professional values. These elements are essential in preparing students for the ethical challenges of the business world, fostering a mind-set that values moral integrity alongside professional success.
- 2. Human Values: The courses in the Humanities are precisely designed to encompass a broad spectrum of crosscutting issues. Languages and Literature from Hindi Marathi and English include human values, linguistic competence, professional ethics, environmental consciousness, and sustainability. Psychology, Political Science, and Geography emphasize soft skills, life skills, language skills, and literary ethics, alongside critical thinking and analytical skills. This diverse integration equips students with the moral and intellectual tools needed to identify and contribute positively to today's social issues.
- 3. Gender Equity: The programs in psychology, Microbiology, Botany, Zoology, BBA(CA), Computer Science, Food Technology, Tourism and Hospitality Management, Languages Hindi Marathi English reflect gender sensitivity, human values, and women empowerment. Specific topics such as non-conventional energy sources, disaster management, population studies, and tourism development are incorporated to ensure that students are aware of and understand the scientific perspectives and responsibilities related to these global challenges. The literature in Marathi, Hindi and English literature reflect feminist perspectives and representation of different gender. The program in psychology reflect gender psychology, gender impact on mental health and role of gender in psychological theories. The issues of gender equity relate the issues in political science in the forms of diversity in Indian constitution.

4. Environment and Sustainability: The programs in Geography, Botany, Zoology, Microbiology food Technology, Tourism and Hospitality Management, and Chemistry reflect sustainable development, environmental conservation and impact of human activity on the planet. Specific topics such as non-conventional energy sources, disaster management, population studies, eco-friendly products and material and tourism development are incorporated to ensure that students are aware of and understand the scientific perspectives and responsibilities related to these global challenges. MSc. Botany and B.Sc. Zoology deal with conservation of biodiversity and wildlife conservation, sustainable management of agriculture and animal resources. The second year students have the projects on environmental studies to understand the challenges and the importance of the eco system. The institution ensures that graduates are not only equipped with the necessary academic and professional skills but are also prepared to tackle ethical challenges and contribute positively to society. It aims to foster a culture of integrity, responsibility, and sustainability among students.
